

Academy: Academic career paths in Australia and the US - a personal perspective

Abstract

This talk is about academic career paths at universities in Australia and the US, from being a doctoral student to obtaining a professorship. I will discuss on what is good and what is bad, based on my personal experiences and observations in Germany, the US, and Australia.

Biosketch

Peter Schreier is currently an Associate Professor at the School of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science at the University of Newcastle, New South Wales, (Australia). He received a Master of Science from the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, USA, in 1999, and a Ph.D. from the University of Colorado at Boulder, USA, in 2003, both in electrical engineering. He has held invited lectures at the University of Hawaii, (USA) Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen, (Germany) and Colorado State University, (USA). He currently serves on the Editorial Board of the IEEE Transactions on Signal Processing, and on the IEEE Technical Committee Machine Learning for Signal Processing.

Monday, July 20th 2009
4 pm, presentation-room
B4.1.114, Lakeside Labs.